Purdue's Two New Animal Science Buildings
To Be Completed in October 2017

The nearly 90,000-square-foot Hobart and Russell Creighton Hall of Animal Sciences will be the new home of the Department of Animal Sciences. The three-floor structure will house research laboratories, conference rooms and open interactive spaces. The Creighton building will contain offices for the department's faculty and staff, scientists with the USDA Ag Research Service's Livestock Behavior Unit, and staff of Indiana's animal regulatory agencies. Creighton Brothers gift recognizes the valuable resources the Animal Science Department has provided since Creighton's founding in 1925.

The Land O'Lakes Center for Experiential Learning will have 22,000 square feet of research and teaching space in support of the meat and protein sciences. The adjoining Purina Pavilion will host teaching, Extension, extracurricular and youth-based events on livestock care, handling and evaluation. Land O'Lakes, one of the nation's leading food and agricultural businesses, is a longtime strategic partner of Purdue Agriculture and has a broad-based relationship with the campus.

Additionally, the ISPA and its members, as well as other commodity groups and businesses provided funding for the Animal Science Buildings.

OUR WORLD IS ALL ABOUT YOU

Our entire team — researchers, technicians, distributors, operations and global development — focuses all our skills on making your relationship with us the most productive and rewarding that it can possibly be.

ISPA BANQUET WELCOME

Dear Friends:

Today we are enjoying the Indiana State Poultry Association's 25th Annual Legislative Banquet. This event offers an excellent occasion to renew connections and make new contacts. It is a good opportunity to educate our legislators on how your business strengthens both community and state.

In 2016, we successfully combated avian influenza in our own state. That success can be attributed to the collaborative environment we enjoy in Indiana. The communication and cooperation Indiana shares between producers and agencies is a valuable asset not found in all states.

The banquet is an opportunity to thank the local, state and federal agencies responsible for providing that protection. Please let your legislators know how important it is to provide the financial support those agencies require. Additionally, utilize this occasion to communicate with Purdue administrators and faculty, and then let your legislators know how important Purdue's work is to you.

Sincerely,

President, Indiana State Poultry Association

ISPA BANQUET EVENING ACTIVITIES

Greetings,

Tonight is an evening to remember!

The poultry and allied industries have been strong supporters of the ISPA Banquet since its inception in 1993. Please join us in thanking our sponsors for the wonderful evening activities they have provided.

ISPA DINNER MUSIC - "AUTUMN'S DAWN"

Autumn's Dawn is made up of three multi-talented young ladies – Kathleen Moman, Elizabeth Johnson and Hannah Boehlke from Southern Indiana. The girls grew up playing music together in the same music studios and remained friends over the years. In 2013, the girls officially formed Autumn's Dawn together and have been performing all over the state since!

Each girl plays at least four instruments including a total of piano, flute, piccolo, guitar, bass, violin/fiddle, ukulele, banjo, and cello as well as vocals. All three girls were semi-finalists in the World Piano competition and boast many other awards. As Classically trained musicians, the girls often perform at wedding ceremonies and private dinner parties. For the Bluegrass and Gospel side of things, the girls perform at fairs, festivals, private parties and churches. The girls also enjoy composing and arranging music and love using these skills to create the perfect songs for their audiences.

Each of the girls is now married, Elizabeth and Kathleen have baby girls just a month apart and Hannah is expecting in May of 2017! The babies are often in tow at performances and there are high hopes for the Autumn's Dawn Jr.'s to become music lovers as well! To learn more about each of the girls, to see pictures and videos, and to find out about upcoming performances - visit the band's Facebook fanpage or website:

Thank you

To all of our team members, family farmers, customers and vendors for the roles you play in our success.

ISPA PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES

We appreciate your participation in the Indiana State Poultry Association's 2017 Annual Banquet. Your sponsorship strengthens our industry's voice and provides the means to accomplish our numerous ambitious goals. The Indiana State Poultry Association:

• Administers Indiana's National Poultry Improvement Plan (NPIP) of the USDA, working with producers and governmental officials to control and eliminate diseases of poultry. The Indiana State Poultry Association (ISPA) benefits the industry by responding to artificial trade barriers which can reduce export opportunities. The ISPA has been instrumental in the creation of the NPIP Commercial AI program.

• Coordinates with state and federal agencies to provide avian influenza, poultry biosecurity and lab sampling trainings and meetings. The ISPA provides regular avian influenza, NPIP and poultry disease updates to its members.

• Travels across Indiana to you for discussions about your operation. These visits include representatives of the Indiana State Board of Animal Health, Purdue Animal Disease and Diagnostic Lab, Purdue Animal Sciences; as well as Purdue animal science and veterinary students.

• Represents our industry's interests by addressing volumes of federal and state regulations involving disease control, the environment, food safety, processing, well being, and live production.

• Amplifies the poultry industry's voice in Indiana government by initiating and continuing a meaningful dialogue with the members of the Indiana General Assembly and the state's congressional delegation.

• Educates the public by providing a multitude of materials for Ag Days, state and county fairs, Purdue Extension programs, and other events.

• Administers the many programs of Indiana's Turkey Market Development Council to promote turkey and advance the production capabilities of Hoosier producers.

• Through the cooperation of its members, the ISPA has donated over 1.2 million eggs and over 470 tons of poultry meat and egg products to Indiana food banks over the past twelve months.

Indiana's Family of Farmers

"Growing up working on the farm is just good home family values."

Name: Bob Bixler
Location: Berne, Indiana
Years farming: I have been farming for 31 years but our egg farm has been here since 1925.
My family: My wife, Lisa, and I have a twleve year old daughter.
How I came to be a farmer: I started working in the chicken houses and hatchery when I was a young boy. I grew up in my father's footsteps.
The best thing about being a farmer: I enjoy going to the grocery store and knowing I had a large part in producing the eggs that are in the cooler. I also get a lot of satisfaction from donating eggs to local food banks, knowing that we can make a difference in the lives of people by helping feed a nation.
My personal philosophy on farming: The Berne Hi-Way Hatchery takes great pride in humanely providing safe, affordable eggs for consumers and making a difference in the world in which we live.

Egg Facts and Trivia

- Indiana ranks 3rd in the United States with more than 27,613,000 egg layers (chickens that lay eggs).
- The United States has approx. 280 million laying hens.
- The average American eats 267 eggs per year.
- Luckily, egg farmers produce approx. 75 billion eggs each year!
- An average hen lays approx. 275 eggs every year.
- As a hen grows older, she produces larger eggs.
- White eggs are produced by hens with white feathers and ear lobes. Brown eggs come from hens with red feathers and red ear lobes.
- There is no nutritional difference between brown and white eggs.
- Legend has it that the folds in a chef's hat represents the number of ways he or she knew how to cook an egg. The vaunted 100-fold hat was reserved for the heads of only the most knowledge-able of culinary experts.
- Chickens came to the New World with Columbus on his second trip in 1493.

ISPA BEER TASTING

The ISPA would like to extend our gratitude to Alltech and the Lexington Brewing and Distilling Company for providing samples of Kentucky Ale Beer.

In the heart of Lexington, Kentucky, is Alltech Lexington Brewing and Distilling Company, a unique stop on the world-famous Kentucky Bourbon Trail® experience. The site is home to Town Branch Distillery and our brewery that produces the Kentucky Ale® family of beers. It is the oldest craft brewery in Lexington. Alltech founder and president Dr. Pearse Lyons acquired the 200-year-old Lexington Brewing Company in 1999 and resurrected the Lexington brewing and distilling tradition that dates back to 1794. Dr. Lyons' background in brewing and distilling made him the ideal person to combine two great things – beer and bourbon. Hailing from five generations of barrel makers, or coopers, he was the first Irishman to earn a formal degree from the British School of Malting and Brewing. While in college, he interned at both the Guinness and Harp Lager breweries and later worked as a biochemist for Irish Distillers, makers of the beloved Jameson whiskey. Today, the brewery produces five award-winning brews and is considered a premier barrel-aging brewery, producing the flagship Kentucky Bourbon Barrel Ale® and a barrel-aged seasonal series.

FORTIFY YOUR DEFENSE!

The ever-present risks of pathogenic bacteria and feed contaminants like mycotoxins can make safeguarding your animals' health a very challenging task. With nutrition at the front line of defense, the Alltech Mycotoxin Management and Gut Health Management programs are designed to support the animal when it needs it the most.

Your flock is your business.
Protecting it is ours.

Let's make

SMALL TALK

How much would one product recall affect your bottom line? What about one less repair to a key piece of equipment? How much would productivity increase if you spent one less hour per week on supply line logistics? Over the course of a year?

And when was the last time your insurance broker asked you those kinds of questions?

It's time to think beyond insurance. To focus on the details. To get smarter by thinking small.

Contact MJ Insurance. And let's talk about every little way we can help make your business a whole lot better.

IT'S A TURKEY.
A lot goes into making a great meal. Even more goes into producing a healthy turkey. Your success is our priority, so we proudly offer products and expertise to help you achieve your goals. Because the most important ingredients aren't the ones that end up on the plate. They're the things that go into raising healthy animals.

GOLDEN EGG AWARD - 2016 - Dr. Pat Wakenell

Dr. Pat Wakenell, DVM, 2016 Golden Egg Award Winner, with Paul Brennan, ISPA, & Ron Truex, 2015 Golden Egg Winner

Dr. Pat Wakenell was born into a military family in San Antonio, Texas with her two older brothers, Ray and Jim. Eventually, her family settled in the suburbs of Detroit, Michigan. Dr. Wakenell's Spartan education is rooted in Agriculture with both a B.S. in horticulture and a D.V.M. from Michigan State University. After spending a few years in private practice, she returned to the university, earning a PhD through research on embryo vaccination and completing a residency in veterinary clinical pathology.

Dr. Wakenell did not spend all of her time with her nose in the books. Michigan State was not only where our honoree became interested in veterinary medicine, but it is also where she met her husband, Mark. Eventually the two began a family, raising two lovely daughters, Alyssa and Kiah. Alyssa lives with her husband, Joe in New York, and works in foreign policy. Kiah teaches school in West Lafayette, Indiana.

Perhaps Dr. Wakenell's proudest professional accomplishment was founding the Purdue University Poultry Diagnostic Medicine Endowed Residency Program, which she chairs. The three-year program is the first fully endowed teaching program in poultry medicine. The program's first residents were accepted August of 2012, 2014 and 2016; with the long-term goal of graduating veterinarians trained in poultry every year. Without the work and dedication of Dr. Wakenell, the program would not have been established.

GOLDEN EGG AWARD - 2016 - Dr. Pat Wakenell

Dr. Wakenell is an associate professor of avian diagnostics at Purdue University's Animal Disease and Diagnostic Laboratory (ADDL), a diplomat of the American College of Veterinary Pathologists, and is a past president of both the American Association of Avian Pathologists (AAAP) and the Western Poultry Disease Conference (WPDC).

In 2016, Pat worked diligently with Purdue's ADDL team running avian influenza tests on over 4,300 samples in response to Indiana's January 2016, AI incident. Her work ensured that Indiana's poultry products were safe for transport out of the control zone, allowing business continuity for all affected parties.

It is clear that Dr. Wakenell has dedicated her career to advancing the practice of poultry medicine and diagnostic pathology. Her entire persona is immersed in the focus of her study. In fact, wherever she goes, she is sure to be sporting at least one poultry-themed garment or accessory - sharing her passion for poultry with everyone she meets.

When she is not working, Pat spends her time caring for her Siamese cats. This activity that began decades ago when she fostered her first Chocolate Point Siamese cat. She now shares her affection for fostering cats with her daughters, among the family members there are nine cats and a dog. Pat also enjoys hiking and looks forward to achieving her goal of visiting each of the national parks at least once during her lifetime.

Agency Recognition at the 2016 ISPA Banquet: The Indiana State Poultry Association President, Phil Seger of Farbest, and ISPA Executive Vice President, Paul Brennan thanked the numerous local, state and federal agencies that participated in Indiana's January 2016, HPAI response efforts. Including the Indiana State Board of Animal Health, the lead state agency, and USDA Veterinary Services, the lead Federal agency, over 25 agencies worked to protect members of the ISPA as we struggled to stop our H7N8 Avian Influenza and eliminate any trace of its existence.

ISPA POULTRY DONATIONS

Indiana State Poultry Association
Donates Over 25 Tons to Indiana Food Banks

Members of the Indiana State Poultry Association (ISPA) donated over 25 tons, or 50,000 pounds, of Indiana poultry products for local distribution to food pantries across the state. These products will provide thousands of highly nutritious meals for Hoosiers during the holidays.

Ted McKinney, Director of the Indiana State Department of Agriculture, accepted the donation and was joined by John Elliot, CEO of Gleaners Food Bank of Indiana, and ISPA representatives during the 69th Annual Ceremony at the Indiana Statehouse. Gleaners, which distributes food to hungry Hoosiers, was hand-selected by Governor Mike Pence to receive the poultry products that were displayed during the ceremony.

"For those who are struggling with food insecurity, the holiday season can be a challenging time," McKinney said. "I commend the Indiana State Poultry Association for coming together and supporting those less fortunate. This kind of generosity is especially appreciated during the holidays and will go a long way to support Hoosiers in need."

Although a larger donation is made during the holidays every year, it only represents a small portion of the total amount that the poultry industry donates statewide. In fact, more than 1.2 million eggs and 470 tons, or 940,000 pounds, of poultry meat and egg products have already been donated this year alone.

"While this year began with a tough challenge for the Indiana poultry industry, the swift cooperation of numerous, state, federal, and local agencies allowed producers to quickly return to the work of producing high quality protein-rich poultry products. The experience made all of us realize how much we have to be thankful for," said Paul Brennan, ISPA Executive Vice President.

Indiana Raises Millions of Broilers Each Year

The top priority of Indiana farmers is to raise healthy, top quality chickens using national animal welfare guidelines and audit checklists. These guidelines cover every phase of the chicken's life and offers science-based recommendations for humane treatment.

Chickens are fed a wholesome diet consisting of Indiana grains like corn and soybeans – along with nutritional supplements such as vitamins and minerals. Contrary to some myths, growth-enhancing additives such as hormones or steroids are never used.

Chicken Wings Rule the Roost at Super Bowl Parties

The National Chicken Council estimated that Americans will eat 1.33 billion chicken wings during the 2017 Super Bowl weekend.

That's an increase of 2% (or 30 million wings) from last year. In total, it's enough wings – 166.25 million pounds – to weigh 338 times more than the combined weight of all 32 NFL teams. And those fellas aren't "featherweights"!

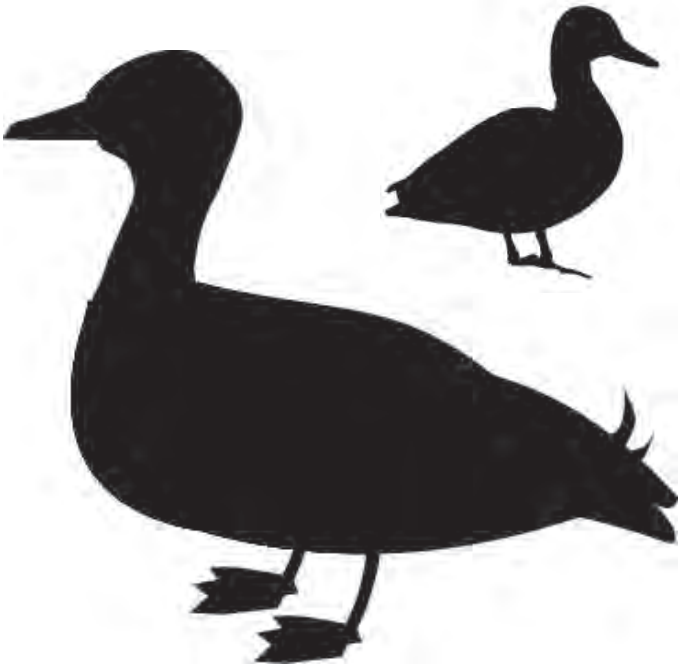
Duck Meat



While duck is poultry, it is very different from chicken and turkey, because ducks produce red meat. This means that a well-prepared duck breast eats more like steak than chicken. Unlike other red meats, duck is very lean and low in saturated fat, making duck meat very healthy.

The Indiana State Poultry Association

The first association of poultry breeders was formed in 1875, during which year the "Indiana Poultry Association" gave a winter exhibition which was successful in every way, and did much toward establishing the prestige of Indiana as a leading State in fine poultry, which has since been maintained and improved upon.

1888-89 Annual Report of the Indiana State Board of Agriculture

Indiana State Poultry Members

"Whether these family-owned farms are large or small scale operations, food safety and animal care are top priorities of our farmers. They care about the quality and safety of the products that feed their own families, their local communities, and communities across the country. Our eggs and poultry products are safe, economical, and wholesome sources of protein."

Pardon Me, Sir!

Presentation of the National Thanksgiving Turkey by the National Turkey Federation (NTF) began with President Harry Truman, and has continued through each presidential administration. The turkey is raised at the direction of that year's NTF chairman.

In recent years, presentation of the National Thanksgiving Turkey has included the custom of "pardoning" the turkey and its alternate. Indiana has provided the National Thanksgiving Turkey in 1976 and 2007.
